Reinventing the Art of Corsetry

ROHAN PARIYAR

Rohan Pariyar is a dressmaker based in Kolkata. He began his career in the fashion industry as a production assistant to fashion designer Sharbari Datta, before moving on to become the production head of Design Workshop, an initiative by Kolkata Commons, an NGO.

As an independent label Rohan has showcased his collections at various fashion events, including Bangalore Fashion Week and North East India Fashion Week.

He then moved to Milan, Italy to be trained in pattern making, moulage and couture tailoring and also interned at three seasons of Milan Fashion Week.

Today, he operates out of his atelier: Rohan Pariyar Studios in Ekdalia. Over the months he has dressed renowned personalities such as Swastika Mukherjee, Esha Saha, Mishmee Das among others.

The atelier has developed a unique perspective to his work which allows him to create pieces that not only look good but feel and fit great.

REINVENTING THE ART OF CORSETRY

The Fall-Winter 2023 collection seeks to reinvent the art of corsetry by incorporating traditional concepts into modern-day wardrobes.

While corsets were traditionally worn under clothes, this collection aims to make them standalone pieces that accentuates any body size.

The collection being an introduction of corsets by the atelier has been designed with multiple fabrics, colours, textures and shapes. The silhouettes range from the 17th century to the 21st century.

These corsets have been constructed with great attention to detail adhering to traditional corsetry methods. Reinventing the same layering, boning and fastening methods and involving materials such as brocades, jacquard, raw silk and sequined fabric they have all been hand finished.

We hope to be able to make corsets a part of everyday wardrobe for everyone!
